

MAY 2018 | CITY OF TALLAHASSEE

INSIGHT

Make a Plan. Build a Kit.

Hurricane season runs from June 1 through Nov. 30. Before September 2016, Tallahassee had not been struck by a hurricane since 1985, but that year and last year, hurricanes impacted this community. Downed trees, power outages and other impacts disrupted life, though thankfully no lives were lost.

Forecasting services are currently predicting a slightly above-average season in 2018. This makes it vitally important for Tallahasseeans to be prepared. As hurricanes Harvey, Irma and Maria all demonstrated last year, one storm can devastate a community, changing lives forever.

Having a hurricane plan for your home and family is essential. Visit www.ready.gov or www.floridadisaster.org to develop your personal plan, get helpful information and ensure you're prepared. Leon County also offers resources for building a personal plan, as well as the local disaster survival guide, at www.haveahurricaneplan.com.

Once you've created your plan, discuss it with your entire family to ensure everyone knows key details, like contact numbers and evacuation routes.

To help residents prepare for hurricane season, the City of Tallahassee, Leon County Government and the American Red Cross, with support from many area partners, will host the annual Build Your Bucket event on Saturday, June 2, at the North Florida Fairgrounds from 9 a.m. to noon. Check Talgov.com for additional details.

The first 800 families / households at the event will receive a free disaster preparedness bucket and starter supplies. Disaster survival guides, preparedness supplies checklists and more will also be distributed at the event. More than 20 area agencies will be on site to connect residents with critical resources and information that will aid in recovery following a disaster. This is a great opportunity to learn more about how to prepare and protect your property, your family and your community.

Citizens can access additional information about local resources, like shelters, relief agencies and disaster training videos, at Talgov.com or LeonCountyFL.gov.

Ensure You Stay Informed

The City will send email and text alerts to City utility customers during emergencies. Check your Utility account contact information to ensure it is up-to-date. Log in to your utility account on Talgov.com or call Customer Service at 891-4968 to verify your contact information.

In addition to direct customer contact, official City information will be posted online and on social media. Bookmark Talgov.com, follow @COTNews on Twitter and like City of Tallahassee, FL – Government on Facebook (Facebook.com/COTNews) now. Local info will also broadcast on 88.9 WFSU-FM.

Prepare Your Business

From a Fortune 500 company to local start-ups, every business should have a hurricane plan. Do you have a building evacuation plan that is regularly practiced? Have you gathered insurance forms, lease agreements and other important paperwork? How will employees get information about the status of operations? These are only a few of the many things employers need to consider when creating a business resiliency plan.

Get more details and helpful information at www.ready.gov/business.

Reporting Power Outages

If you haven't already downloaded DigiTally (the City's free trouble reporting mobile app) there is no better time than right now. If the power goes out during a storm, you can quickly and easily report it through the app via your smart phone or tablet. The app will ask for the address of the outage and your phone number. Once you submit the report, you'll receive a confirmation email. All reports submitted via DigiTally are sent directly to the Electric Utility and put into the system to be addressed.

If you don't have a mobile phone, there is a similar functionality for reporting outages on Talgov.com. You can also call Customer Service at 891-4968. Call wait times will be longer during major events.

Plan for Your Pet

When crafting your family's preparedness plan, be sure to include your pets. Pets will need food, water, medication and other items, too. If you live in an evacuation zone, identify shelters or nearby hotels/motels that take pets. Put a current photo of your pet in your kit for identification purposes.

Get more pet preparedness tips at www.ready.gov/animals.

Special Needs? Register Now.

Citizens who will need assistance with evacuation and sheltering because of age, disability or other special needs should register NOW. All information you provide is confidential and protected under Florida Statutes. Special needs shelters are intended to provide, to the extent possible under emergency conditions, an environment that can sustain an individual's level of health. If you or a loved one require a high level of medical care or depend on electricity for life-sustaining medical equipment, you should consider registering for the special needs shelter. Completing the Florida Special Needs Registry does not, however, automatically qualify the individual for a special needs shelter. Register online at snr.floridadisaster.org. For further assistance with registration, call Leon County Division of Emergency Management at 606-3700.

Register online at snr.floridadisaster.org.
